Promott, Jerome and the smaller towns and comps of the county report a large increase in the volume of general trade, particularly in the outfliting of prospectors and miners. In fact, there has never been a period in the history of Yavapai county when general pushess was better and the mining hushess more properous.

Copper muling is being followed in various sections here with very gratifying results. The United Verde is compering a varange of 2000 tone of copper ore daily: the Commercial, an average of 2000 tone of copper ore daily: the Commercial, an average of 2000 tone of copper ore daily: the Commercial, an average of 100 tone daily, and the leaser properties from one to four max loads of copper ore each week. In addition, the United Verde Extension, known locally as the "Jaile Daisy," has reached the stage of development where its future is assured. The ore conditions in the Verde Extension are so satisfactory that there has been a general speeding up of work on a number of properties in the Verde copper belt. There have also we late been a mamber of impuriant sales of mining acreage in that section, and the Copper Basin district. Notably among the latter is the passing of the Old Haynes property. New York, April 28.—Baby welfare societies and responsible heads of milk stations are preparing for the increased responsibilities which come with the tory of improved infant feeding dates back Junt a quarter of a contury, Twenty-five years ago, there was no organization in New York which prepared milk for babies, or devoted any pared milk for babies, or devoted any systematic effort to the instruction of tenement house mothers. In consequence, infant mortality was unbellevably high.

Mrs. Felix Adler is the plonest in the work of providing better food for bables of the Poor. In conjunction with her sisterinlaw, Mrs. Issae Adler, she advocated the need for infant food laboratories long before Baby Welfars societies were heard of, or milk stations had been established. These two women opened a laboratory for the preparing of infant feedings to the through of tenement mothers whose bables lives depended on their setting rafe milk. They and their co-workers took advantage of the evolution of acientific infant feeding, as it had been developed in Germany, when a Munich physician had solved the problem of providing a sufe method of bottle feeding by sterilizing each separate feeding.

At the Good Samaritan dispensary, a young physician was easer to apply the new method for the benefit of the peor bables of the East Side of New York. In 1891, means were placed at his disposal which enabled him to make the trial, and sterilized milk in single feedings, was placed within reach of tenement mothers, at a cost just sufficient to pay for the milk. When the improved method of pasteurising was introduced, the dispensary quickly took it up, and later the still better system of modified milk was adopted. The splendid work insulanterated by Nathan Straines followed. It would be difficult to estimate the number of little lives which have been saved through these efforts. Mrs. Polix Adler has lost none of the interest in the work site heighed is introduce, and for several years she has secured splendid results by reason of being chairman of the committee on district nursing for the Society of Ethical Culture, of which her husband is the leader.
